Rules for Analytical and Critical Thinking (ACT) Test

The ACT Test is designed to assess a candidate's analytical and critical thinking skills. It is an approximately 8-12 minute online, face-to-face interview conducted via Zoom Workplace.

All candidates must comply with the following rules:

1. Candidates must ensure they have the necessary communication devices, a stable internet connection, and the Zoom Workplace application installed. A stable and uninterrupted internet connection is essential throughout the test.

2. The ACT Test has a fixed duration and a specific number of questions. Once the timer expires, the test will automatically end, even if the candidate has not answered all the questions.

3. The ACT Test is an exclusive interview between the candidate and the exam committee. Candidates must ensure privacy during the test. No other individuals are allowed to enter or exit the room during the test.

4. The test will be conducted via the Zoom platform. Candidates must keep their video camera on for the entire duration of the interview. Headphones, Bluetooth devices, and wireless over-ear headphones are not permitted.

5. If the candidate's internet connection fails during the test, they may reconnect to the Zoom session. However, any lost progress cannot be recovered, and the test will continue within the predetermined time frame.

6. Candidates must ensure that no other software is running, and no other electronic devices are in use during the test.

7. Any form of internet search, accessing online sources, or receiving assistance from others during the test is strictly prohibited. Such actions are considered cheating and will lead to disciplinary action.

8. There will be no make-up sessions or time extensions for any reason.

9. The ACT Test is confidential. It may not be copied, posted online, recorded, or reproduced in any manner at any time. The exam questions and answers must not be disclosed to anyone during or after the test.
